Bicycling

by
James H. Hancock, III

Now that we face an energy crisis, have you thought of using your bicycle for short errands?

For years, before the energy crisis, 4-H club members have been riding bikes and learning about bicycle care and stressing safety. These boys and girls, between the ages of 9 and 19, have been filling out records, winning ribbons, certificates and medals on their accomplishments. Talents for exhibits and acquired skills for giving talks have won trips for many.

I have learned that if you are to maintain a safe bicycle, it should be checked by a professional bike repairman at least twice a year. Once a month check ups should be made by the owner. Through workshops conducted, club members learn these points to check.

Clean and oil moving and metal parts, removing rust and dirt. These parts include wheels, sprockets, chain and other moving elements. Check spokes for tightness and tires for wear and pressure. Tighten all nuts and bolts on wheels, pedals, gears, crank, seat, brakes and frame.

You should also have a front light and rear reflector if used at night, a parking stand and a bell.

A code offered by the Bicycle Institute of America suggests the following safety rules: always obey stop signs and lights; use hand signals to indicate turning and stopping; ride single file; keep to the right side of the road; do not ride from between parked cars; give right of way to pedestrians and automobiles; avoid stunt riding, racing or zigzagging in traffic; do not "hitch" rides; don't weave in or out of traffic; do not ride when tired or ill; dismount and walk across heavy traffic; make bicycle repairs off the road.

Bicycling is fun! Come and join us! If you are between 9 and 19 and bikes interest you, see your Extension Agent for details on bicycle and other 4-H projects.

W. TWYMAN COLEMAN

Civic Leader Joins Atkins Realty Firm

W. Twyman Coleman, of Appomattox, has joined the staff of Landon G. Atkins, Real Estate and Insurance, Inc., at Farmville as a real estate salesman, Coleman, founder and former owner of Coleman and Sons, Inc., Southern States farm supply outlet in Appomattox, will specialize in farms and rural residences sales and services.

He has sold the farm supply business to two sons after direct management of it for 25 years.

A licensed real estate salesman, Coleman is a member of the advisory board of the Appomattox Office of Fidelity National Bank, a member of the Appomattox Lions Club and of Monroe Lodge No. 301, A.F. and A.M., at Appomattox. He joined the Farmville firm after 18 months in a similar real estate sales post in Lynchburg. He began his new duties in this area February 4.

Highway Safety Speed For Winter Driving

RICHMOND - Winter weather is no excuse for skidding accidents and traffic tie-ups.

"Failure to stop in time is generally the result of driving too fast for pavement conditions. Skidding is caused by the driver over-powering, over-braking, or over-steering, says John T. Hanna, director, Highway Safety Division of Va.

An important technique for winter drivers to develop is a sense of "feel" to determine just how slippery the road surface is. This can be determined by jabbing the brakes occasionally when out of the way of other traffic to see if the wheels skid or by short, quick applications of the accelerator. If the wheels skid or spin, drive at a slower speed and perform all maneuvers with a gentle touch.

According to the safety official, traction aids such as snow tires and chains provide definite assistance when used properly, but in no case do they provide the same amount of traction or snow or ice as that normally available on either wet or dry pavement.

For severe snow and ice conditions, reinforced tire chains provide the ultimate in both stopping and pulling ability.

Fidelity American Bankshares States Position

LYNCHBURG, Feb. 7 - Following a meeting of the Board of Directors of Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc. (FAB), it was announced by FAB "for the first time" that it has a genuine interest in acquiring all the assets and guaranteeing payment of all liabilities of the wholly-owned industrial loan subsidiaries and the two insurance subsidiaries of Diversified Mountaineer Corp. (DMC). This announcement substantially confirms what was announced Tues., Feb. 5, by West Virginia's Governor Arch A. Moore, Jr.

The Board of Directors, Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc. in expressing its interest, instructed management to proceed with its evaluation of the assets of the subsidiaries and to determine accurately the liabilities to be assumed. A final decision by the Board of FAB concerning the acquisition of DMC subsidiaries can only be made after a number of conditions have been met including approval of regulatory authorities, courts, and receivers.

In the event that the various complicated problems are satisfactorily resolved, it is hoped that limited operations of those DMC subsidiaries can be resumed in the near future. FAB also expressed its concern for favorable action by the West Virginia legislature to make it possible to insure the public deposits held by these West Virginia DMC subsidiaries.

Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc. is a registered bank holding company, headquarted in Lynchburg, Va., which operates 13 banks with 80 offices in Virginia and 6 bank-related financial subsidiaries doing business in six states in the Southeast. Total assets of the company on December 31, 1973, were $756.4 million with total deposits of $648.5 million.

FOOD SHOPPER

Cathy B. Hinton

Think about the many foods on your grocer's shelves-fresh fruits, vegetables, sausage products, milk, flour and meat. Do you know which are processed? You're right if you think all of them are.

Even fresh fruits and vegetables get a "once-over-lightly" on a processing line. The amazing thing is that plus being scrubbed, sorted and sized, well over half receive a thin coat of edible wax. Of course that wax makes such foods as cucumbers and apples prettier and more eye appealing to consumers. It also has many purposes for being placed on fruits and vegetables. It is just another of the many food processing techniques which protect our food.

For example, take that favorite Virginia fruit the apple. Apples secrete a natural coat of soft wax that protects the product, but also acts as a trap for dirt and bacteria. When the apples are washed during processing the dirt and bacteria are removed along with the natural wax. This wax is replaced by one that is edible

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Roach went to Lovingston Saturday night to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Roach and to attend the shower for their grand daughter, Lynn Roach.

Sympathy extended to the Norfleet family in their recent bereavement.

A speedy recovery is wished Mrs. Graydon Maxwell, who got sick Thursday night.

Refugee From Russia Recalls Shortages and Rationing Under Communism

"Many Americans think that shortages and economic chaos in the Soviet Union are a result of Communism's failure. But just the opposite is true. Deliberate starvation and the shortage of goods and services are nothing more than signs of Communism's success."

Thus says Mrs. Katharyn Iwanowski, a naturalized American citizen who suffered under both Communism and Naziism. Mrs. Iwanowski will be speaking in Richmond at the Holiday Inn at 3200 West Broad on February 14, 1974, at 8 p.m. Her speech, entitled "SHORTAGES AND RATIONING-MEMORIES OF RUSSIA" will describe the conditions she and her family witnessed under the Soviet dictatorship, and the same conditions she sees developing in this country.

Mrs. Iwanowski watched the Communists create a terrible famine in her former homeland. "Millions of people were deliberately starved to death when the government took away our food," she recalls. However, she survived and, during World War II, she again found herself a victim of tyranny when she was imprisoned in a German war camp.

In 1952, her dream to come to America came true. Ever since she became a citizen in 1958, as the original, only a little harder.

Damage in fruit and vegetable shipment is cut down due to wax and oil coatings. These coatings produce lubrication which reduces the chafing and scuffing that occurs when produce is shipped to market.

Another advantage of this waxing is to preserve the product. The wax seals the skin of produce and slows its deterioration so that it keeps longer.

Remember too that all waxes and oils used are food grade edible products. Therefore it's not necessary to remove the wax coating before eating produce. Enjoy the many advantages that waxing causes in the processing of fresh produce.

Fidelity American Leasing Corporation Gets Approval To Begin Business

LYNCHBURG - According to an announcement made by Frank Wobst, Executive Vice President of Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc., Fidelity American Leasing Corporation has been approved to commence business. The leasing operation will be headquarters in the Columbia Building, 812 Main Street, in Lynchburg.

In commenting on this leasing company, Mr. Wobst also announced the election of T. Carl Alderman as President of the company and Jerry W. Morrow as Vice President.

Alderman, a native of Durham, North Carolina, joined Fidelity National Bank in 1969 and was formerly employed as Officer in Business Management at Cental Virginia Community College. He has been recently an assistant vice president in the bank. He is a graduate of North Carolina Wesleyan College and received his Masters Degree in Business Administration from the University of North Carolina. Other academic activities include graduation from the National Commercial Lending School at the University of Oklahoma. He is also a member of the leasing committee of The Association of Registered Bank Holding Companies. He resides in Lynchburg with his wife, the former Jo Anne Blow and one son, Brian.

Mr. Morcom, a native of Lynchburg, graduated from E. C. Glass High School and received his B. A. in Business and Economics from Lynchburg College in 1966.

After joining Fidelity National Bank that same year, he was promoted to assistant vice president in 1970. He has just completed his final year at Rutgers Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey. He is currently a member of the Board of Directors of the Lynchburg Chapter of the American Institute of Banking. Mr. Morcom is married to the former Diana Pickeral. They have one son, Jeffrey and reside on Mountain View Drive in Madison Heights.

In making this announcement, Mr. Wobst stated that Fidelity American Leasing Corporation will offer equipment leasing to commercial and manufacturing concerns. Essentially, all types of new or used equipment will be leased. The company will also enter into sale-lease-back arrangements on currently owned equipment. Leases may range from $10.000 to multi-million dollar transactions.

According to Mr. Wobst, leasing has shown dramatic growth over the last several years. He noted that many established firms, as well as new small companies, often do not have cash available to purchase needed equipment when business conditions warrant.

Fidelity American Leasing Corporation will be able to assist these firms in obtaining needed equipment and at the same time enable these companies to conserve funds which can be most profitably employed as working ca

Mr. Wobst feels th formation of this comp provide an attractive alternative for ma inesses.

Future plans call for Fidelity American Corporation to be est elsewhere in Virginia Southeast during th several years.

Mrs. Carolyn A. Coleman

Named Valentine Queen By Sorority

Delta Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Appomattox honored the Chapter's Valentine Queen for 1974 with a dinner Saturday evening, February 9th, at the Sheraton Motor Inn Lynchburg.

In the tradition of the Chapter, the queen was chosen by secret ballot and her name kept a secret from members of the club until the announcement was made at the Valentine celebration that evening. This year's queen, Carolyn Anderson Coleman, was crowned by the Chapter President, Shelia Smith, Bobbie.

Carolyn was the 1973 Queen.

She was recently nominated for the roll of Outstanding Young Women of America. In addition, she held her Chapter's office before being named Girl of the Year in 1973 and was recently elected to fill a vacated position of Vice-President of the Chapter.

Carolyn is presently employed by the Appomattox County Social System and serves in the capacity of kindergarten teacher.
